

ISER'S FIRST LINE DURLED INTO BREACH TO WIN POLISH FIGHT

Titanic Battle Rages at Lodz and Lowicz as Germans Bring Reinforcements to Main Front.

6500 RUSSIANS SEIZED BY GERMANS

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—Additional successes are claimed in north Poland and 6500 Russians captured, in the War Office official statement today.

"Quiet prevailed in East Prussia and Southern Poland," the statement asserts. "Our booty in North Poland has been increased as a result of yesterday's successes by 5000 men, 30 cannon, 35 machine guns and numerous ammunition carts."

PETROGRAD, Dec. 1.

First line German troops are now opposing a portion of the Russian army in Poland, it is stated here today. The arrival of reinforcements for the enemy and the strengthening of the corps of three youths and second and third line troops by the first fighting forces is said to be responsible for the delay in settling the issue in Poland.

It is admitted that the German forces are putting up a desperate resistance in the vicinity of Lodz. Their losses are declared to be enormous. The Germans fought their way out of the vice—they were caught south of Lodz at the point of the bayonet in the face of terrific machine gun and rifle fire.

"Heavy fighting continues," the Army Messenger says. "The German force has been greatly reduced. They are fighting separately to save themselves from annihilation at the hands of our troops. The enemy is trying to bring up reinforcements, but those marching up from Wlun have been defeated. The battle is raging with terrific fierceness in the vicinity of Lowicz. The Germans are making constant advances after counter charge. Their troops are sent against us in solid masses, but so far the Russians have prevented the enemy from getting relief. We have inflicted tremendous losses on the Germans."

"Our troops are continuing their attack on the Germans along the Strykow-Spiers line."

"Along the left bank of the Vistula, Field Marshal von Hindenburg is trying a desperate offensive movement in order to rescue General von Mackenzon's army. So far the Russians have checked this movement."

"The Russians have inflicted enormous losses on the German extreme right, which attempted to advance from Scherertow, on the Warthe."

"We have captured four great barges laden with German guns, rifles and ammunition."

Moreover, the Germans appear to be getting reinforcements up to the main front, which has doubtless encouraged their attempt to advance from the capture by an attack along the Vistula which the Russians repulsed.

In official circles confidence in the result is unabated, but now it is recognized that serious work lies before the Russian forces in the capture of German entrenchments.

It is officially announced that the Germans have received reinforcements in the shape of two infantry divisions and one cavalry division.

FOES IN POLAND CLASH IN THREE GREAT BATTLES

London Sees "Local Successes" But No General Victory

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Another day of the crucial battle between the Russians and Germans and Austrians in Poland has passed without news of a decisive result. The Berlin official statement tonight reports the capture of 4500 prisoners and 18 cannon south of the Vistula, but says nothing of importance has occurred in South Poland. The Russian Government rests upon its warning against over-optimism.

The facts, as gleaned from various messages of correspondents, appear to be that three separate engagements are progressing between Thorn on the north and Cracow on the south, in which both combatants have achieved local success, without a distinct victory for either arm.

Some of the British military experts declare that the Germans have consistently underestimated the qualities of their Russian opponents and have opposed them with a body composed almost wholly of second line troops, but are now rushing heavy reinforcements from the western line. They express the opinion that the issue depends on whether these arrive in time.

Advice from Holland report that railway traffic, newspapers and posts in the Brussels region are entirely suspended. It is presumed for the purpose of suppressing news of a movement of German troops to the eastward.

SERVICE ORDERED RESTORED

N. J. Public Utility Commission Gives Twenty Days for Compliance.

Upon a motion of R. G. C. Blaxter, City Solicitor, of Camden, President Douglas, of the State Public Utility Commission, today directed the Public Service Railway Company to restore the old cross-town service in Camden on a 16-mile headway. The service is to run temporarily up 4th street from Kaighn avenue until the necessary curves are installed at 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th and Arch streets, where the service is to run up 4th street and down either Federal or Arch street, as the company may elect.

The company is privileged to abandon the 2d and 4th street service when the cross-town service is restored.

The commission refused to allow any decrease in service or headway on the 6th street and Broadway line and also denied the motion to discontinue the line as made by the company. An order will be made today by the commission which gives the company 20 days to comply with the ruling of the board. The abandonment of the latter is considered a victory for Camden.

SELECTIONS IN MARRIAGES

Eighty-One Chose 1915 Officials Today—Liquor an Issue.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—Eight of the 81 marriages which were solemnized today were for the purpose of selecting the 1915 officials of the city. The liquor issue was a prominent one in many of the marriages.

"TAX, TAX, NOTHING BUT TAXES," PLAINT OF MOVIE MANAGER

Proprietor of the Little Broadway in Kensington Closes Theatre and Looks for a Job.

It's all over now, my business is gone, what little money I had saved up after years of hard work has followed the same path, so what's the use of kicking?

"Believe me, times were hard enough without this war tax. The business man has enough to contend with. I am not talking about the rich business men, who half the time are not business men at all—financiers I think they call themselves, but I am talking about the business man who needs every cent he makes."

"Believe me again when I say he needs it; not to keep his golf links in repair; not to count the minutes until the new year's limousine has been put on the market, and not to get some artist to design the latest fashions in shirts for his English butler, but he needs it to support his little ones at home and many times even his parents, who at least have a right to exist on this earth. Exist is about right, I think."

"I am looking for a job. That's about the size of it."

Crushed at least temporarily, discouraged, disheartened and worn out in his untiring efforts to keep his head above water in the whirlpool of competition and hard times, Edward Bachman, proprietor of the Little Broadway Theatre, 235 Kensington avenue, who could not pay the $20 emergency war tax yesterday and therefore closed his theatre, unbowed his troubles today.

HAIR TURNED GRAY.

Bachman was noncommittal at first. He said talking wouldn't help any and that he was doing the best he could to forget at least a small share of his troubles.

"I don't want to appear as a quitter," he said. "I don't care so much for myself, but you must realize I have an aged mother at home and two sisters to support."

"My mother is nearly 70 years old. Ever since I was a kid I have worked for a living. My brother Charles, who ran the theatre with me, has done the same thing. My mother at least has been able to manage. We didn't want much; we didn't expect much, and at least we were happy. But I tell you this last venture with the war tax and all has been a terrible blow."

"I had to pay the war tax and I simply couldn't do it. Maybe I haven't been doing some thinking of late. Besides the war tax, next month I would have had to pay $100 for a city license, $25 for a State license, and when you figure up rent and all, I simply ran up against an impossibility."

"My two sisters at home are about 30 years old. They have worked in the mills, and even the mills are closed. I must look after them. I am only too glad to do so. But then, I am up against it. The worst of this blow is it falls on a whole family."

"Of course, money isn't everything, but it means a lot when the dear ones at home want food. By years of careful saving my brother and I were able to make over the Little Broadway last spring. It was an expensive undertaking, but if things could have only broken right, things would have all gone smoothly. But what's the use—you know the result."

LIFE OF A MANAGER.

"Don't talk to me about the vivid spotlights and the gay life of a theatrical manager. Look at this theatre. 'Little Broadway' reads good, but that is about all. I have been in the game and I know it. I have worked hard since I was a youngster. We have all worked hard, and we can only ever accuse any member of my family of laziness."

After several days of business a tragedy had happened about ten years ago.

AMERICAN "SCOOP" ON CROWN PRINCE'S TALK STIRS LONDON

English Newspapers Comment Satirically on Correspondent's Exclusive Interview With Heir to German Throne.

FARMERS TALK PROSPERITY AS JERSEY GRANGE MEETS

Many Motor to Atlantic City for Convention on Pier.

ATLANTIC CITY, Dec. 1.—Jersey farmers assembled today for the annual convention of the State Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, on the Steel Pier. There was not a hint of depression among the well-to-do farm folk, who reported a bumper apple and potato crop, talked about chances of wheat going much higher and debated chances of getting a normal school for girls in South Jersey and a college for women at New Brunswick, where the Legislature meets. Many of the farmers came in their motors.

Reports spread through the convention hall that Senator George W. F. Gaston, of Mullens Hill, who is worthy Master, would advocate conservatism in his annual report. Senator Gaunt, who is a Republican, communicated to grange officials the disturbing information that Republicans would fall heir to a State deficit for the first time in many years, when they take over control of State affairs in January. The Senator intimated to his associates that the farmers should refrain from asking expensive concessions from the State during the coming year.

"Our first duty is to the State," he said, a view that was accepted with reluctance by women delegates, who have been looking forward to having a State college built next year.

LAMAR'S TRIAL BEGUN

Wolf of Wall Street Arraigned in Federal Court.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The trial of David Lamar, known as the "wolf of Wall Street," charged with impersonating officers of the United States Government, began in Federal Court today. Among the witnesses for the prosecution present was F. Morgan Lewis Cass Ledyard, the famous corporation lawyer, with whom Lamar talked over the telephone while he is alleged to have impersonated Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, was also on hand. Lamar was accompanied by his wife and seemed ill at ease when the work of questioning testimony began.

GRETA GREEN'S BUSY MONTH

Elkton Ministers Married 218 Couples in November.

ELKTON, Mr. Dec. 1.—Two hundred and eighteen couples, most of them Philadelphians, journeyed to the Gretna Green of Maryland and were married by ministers here during November.

Those married here today were Robert C. Lawrence and Julia M. Carroll, Philadelphia; James W. Pawest, Marcus Hook, and Leona A. Swartz, Wilmington; Drew Murphy, Baltimore, and Evelyn C. Hawkins, Havre de Grace; Charles L. Blando, Emmaus, and Imogene Olla, Baltimore; Lester H. Wolfe and Florence L. Sell, Reading.

COY RECRUIT SHOD, SHORN AND BATHED; COST, SIX SHILLINGS

Then Railroaded to Barrack Gate by Energetic Englishwoman, Who Leaves the Rest to Kitchener.

An Englishwoman, writing to a relative in Philadelphia, recounts some of the varied events of wartime in England, picturing graphically the humorous as well as the serious side of home activities.

She writes: "My dear friend, Sedately, who should be remembered to you. Her stepson has joined one of the Pals or Comrade Battalions, in spite of one very weak knee. I think it is so plucky of him to enlist. Still most amusing and bright, she is a very active member of the Women's Emergency Corps, of which I must tell you some other time. Her nicknames certainly suit her better now than in the old careless, happy days and she is amazingly energetic and useful—women are certainly doing wonderful work in these strenuous times and Sedately takes a leading part in nearly everything."

"Sedately has just come in to tell me she has captured a raw recruit. She saw him lying at the corner of a street, talked to him firmly, gently and with infinite patience. He was full of excuses. He could not possibly arrive at barracks without clean clothing, so Sedately took him to a shop and spent three shillings and six pence on a shirt and a pair of socks, then he said he couldn't get the certificates of his marriage and the births of his children, without which his wife could not get the separation allowance while he was away. Sedately marched him off and got the certificates, for which she paid two shillings and two pence. Next he objected that he must give it up for he couldn't go unshaven and unshorn, so she went with him to a barber's shop and paid for him to be shorn and shined. After that he complained that he hadn't been able to afford a bath for weeks; three pence was paid for a good soapy scrub. He carried a new creature, the result was marvelous."

"Finally she marched him up to the barrack gates and now declares she leaves Kitchener to do the rest. I wish I had met her in the middle of this adventure—she certainly sticks at nothing when her mind is made up—and she has done a good turn to the loafers and to the army at an expenditure of six shillings and one penny."

USELESS "WAR AID" SOCIETIES.

The writer takes a gentle and deserved "fling" at some of the futile proceedings of officious persons with more than their hands than common sense to utilize it practically.

A good many jokes are going round at the expense of the various societies—many of them of little use—which have been started with the best of intentions. A malicious writer of my acquaintance says that one of his women friends has started a league for sending tea-leaves to the Fleet, another one for helping the jilted fiancées of the men at the front, another says her club is supplying clean dozen pairs of night socks a day for the front, and so on. But, seriously, it is unfortunate that some of our neighbors are so busy with their own projects that when so much urgent work is crying out to be accomplished quickly, and it is to be hoped that the necessities will be provided first. I don't believe there will be much spare time for luxuries."

How "France" expected a "scrap of paper" in 1870 is described in the following account of a speech by David Lloyd George:

"I have learnt a great deal of history from it, or perhaps it has brought back forgotten facts to my mind. Do you know that in 1870 England intervened to protect Belgium from France and invited both the belligerent Powers (Germany and France), to state that they had no intention of violating Belgian territory? Both Germany and France answered that it was unnecessary to ask such a question in view of the treaties in force. The Belgians expressed their gratitude for the intervention and three or four days after the French army had only one way of escape from Prussian cannon, by tearing up the treaty of neutrality with Belgium. The French preferred ruin and humiliation to the breaking of their bond. But it is the interest of Prussia now to break the treaty, so 'the scrap of paper' is thrown to the winds. Both Austria and Prussia undertook to defend the integrity of Belgium side by side with Russia, France and England; they entered Belgium to save their lives, they have, most certainly, not gained it, but they have lost their good name."

KILLED MAN ON STEAMSHIP

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 1.—Facing the charge of murder, George Batchelor Perkins, of Boston, was arraigned before the United States District Court here today. Perkins killed F. W. H. Hinman, of Jacksonville, and wounded B. H. Wright, of Utica, Captain A. D. Ingram, of the Clyde Line Mohawk, just before that vessel arrived in Charleston Harbor early in November.

Passengers and crew were terrorized when Perkins, who was said to have taken an overdose of headache powder, began his murderous rampage.
